RISING STARS OF ST. PETERSBURG'S MARIINSKY ACADEMY, SOPRANO IRINA MATAEVA AND TENOR DMITRI VOROPAEV, MAKE THEIR BAY AREA DEBUTS ACCOMPANIED BY PIANIST LARISSA GERGIEVA ON SUNDAY, DECEMBER 4 AT 3:00 P.M. IN HERTZ HALL

SIGHTLINES: Pre-concert talk by musicologist William Quillen, 2:00–2:30 p.m.

BERKELEY, November 3, 2005 – Each year, a small, select group of musicians from Russia’s Mariinsky Academy of Young Singers in St. Petersburg are chosen to tour internationally with artistic director and pianist Larissa Gergieva. Known for her instinct to find talent, this season Gergieva brings soprano Irina Mataeva and tenor Dmitri Voropaev, both on the cusp of international performance careers, to Berkeley’s Hertz Hall on Sunday, December 4 at 3:00 p.m. as part of Cal Performances’ Centennial Season. Mataeva and Voropaev will sing a program of duets and solos by composers including Pyotr Tchaikovsky, Sergei Rachmaninoff, and Alexandr Grechaninov.

A free Sightlines pre-concert talk entitled “The Russian Romance as Everyday Musical Life, 1830-1900” will be given by musicologist William Quillen one hour before the concert, 2:00–2:30 p.m. in Hertz Hall.

IRINA MATAEVA

Soprano Irina Mataeva graduated from the St. Petersburg Conservatory in 1999 after studying with Tamara Novichenko. Since 1998 she has been a soloist at the Academy of the Mariinsky Theatre and has toured to Finland, China, America, Germany, Italy, and the UK. She has taken master classes with Elena Obratzova, Renata Scotto, Larissa Gergieva, and others. Mataeva has sung in recital with the Mariinsky Academy at Wigmore Hall in London and with Larissa Gergieva at St John’s Smith Square as a part of the Rosenblatt Series. Her recent opera engagements include singing Chloe in Pique Dame, Micaela in Carmen and Zerlina in Don Giovanni with the Washington Opera; Chloe at the Los Angeles Opera; and Tatiana in Eugene Onegin at the Theatre du Chatelet in Paris (where the Sponsors’ Circle named her Most Popular...
Artist in 2003) and the Opera de Marseille. Mataeva has also sung Lisa in La Sonnambula, Susanna in Le nozze di Figaro, Natasha in War and Peace, and Sofia in Semyon Kotko. Future engagements include Sampiero Corso at the Opera de Marseille.

DMITRI VOROPAEV

Born in Baku in 1980, Dmitri Voropaev graduated from the M.I. Glinka Choral College in 1998 and entered the St. Petersburg Conservatory, where he studied conducting and choral singing. He joined the Mariinsky Academy of Young Singers in 2000 and has since sung in concerts at the Academy and abroad, including performances in Finland and Estonia. In 2001 Voropaev was invited to sing in concert with the Estonian State Philharmonic orchestra, and he made his debut on the Mariinsky stage under Maestro Valery Gergiev as Don Ottavio in Don Giovanni in 2002. A 2004 finalist of Placido Domingo’s Operalia Competition, Voropaev has also sung Chevalier Belfiore in Il Viaggio a Reims at the Mariinsky Theatre, Don Giovanni with Valery Gergiev in Japan and Boris Godunov in Washington DC. Future engagements include his debut at La Monnaie in Brussels, singing Boris Godunov.

LARISSA GERGIEVA

Pianist Larissa Gergieva serves as accompanist, teacher and mentor to the Artists of the Mariinsky Academy. An Honored National Artist of Russia, she was appointed artistic director of the Mariinsky Academy of Young Singers upon its formation in 1998, and charged with nurturing young Russian musical talent. She has toured with Academy artists to Switzerland, Argentina, Paris, London, New York, and across North America, including last season’s memorable appearance at Cal Performances where Gergieva introduced mezzo-soprano Ekaterina Semenchuk, an “artist of fire and finesse” (San Francisco Chronicle), to Bay Area audiences.

Gergieva began to study music at age seven, along with her brother Valery Gergiev, who serves as principal conductor and artistic director of St. Petersburg’s Mariinsky Theatre. Gergieva continued her piano studies at Rostov-on-Don and St. Petersburg, and played her first recital as an accompanist at the age of 15. She taught piano at the Academy of Musical Arts in Vladikavkaz and was soon invited to be repetiteur at the Vladikavkaz Opera. While there, she prepared singers for productions of Tosca, Madama Butterfly, I Pagliacci, and Carmen as well as many Russian operas. She also prepared Verdi’s Otello for her brother to conduct at the Vladikavkaz Opera. In 1987 she was appointed repetiteur at the Tchaikovsky Opera House in Perm, where she also prepared singers for national and international singing competitions. She continues to hold master classes in Perm for Russian and international singers, and is general director of the biennial Rimsky-Korsakov Competition for Singers in St. Petersburg. Gergieva is in demand throughout the world as an opera coach, working in Aix-en-Provence, San Francisco, Salzburg, Milan, Tokyo, London, and other cities.
