Berkeley, July 25, 2017 — Cal Performances at UC Berkeley announces four additions to its 2017/18 season, ranging in scale from solo recital to orchestra to live radio show taping to site-specific dance work. The season’s orchestral offerings are expanded with the addition of beloved American orchestra, the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra, are performing an all-John Williams program on April 21 at the Greek Theatre. Pianist Anthony de Mare celebrates another hero of American music with his program Liaisons: Reimagining Sondheim from the Piano, a recital of Stephen Sondheim favorites arranged and re-imagined for solo piano by a host of eminent modern composers, on November 5 in Hertz Hall. And the popular radio program, NPR’s From the Top with Host Christopher O’Riley, invites audiences to a live recording of a future broadcast that features performances and personal stories of extraordinary young classical musicians from across the country, on March 2 in Zellerbach Hall. Aerial dance troupe Flyaway Productions presents a site-specific performance of its The Right To Be Believed outdoors in downtown Oakland, at the intersection of 12th Street and Broadway on October 6 and 7. Admission is free, and limited seating will be available.

Inspired by an essay in Harper’s Magazine by Bay Area author and critic Rebecca Solnit, Flyaway Productions’ The Right To Be Believed is an exploration of the credibility of women’s voices in the public realm. Company artistic director Jo Kreiter has created a work that uses the gravity-defying art form of aerial dance—her performers navigating vertical urban landscapes with ropes and harnesses—to elevate female voices and call attention to the legal, social, and professional constraints that disempower women. The work premiered in spring of 2017 and features an original soundscore by the Oakland based artists of FR333.

NPR’s From the Top with Host Christopher O’Riley presents classically trained young musicians from across the country in a variety show format that includes interviews, amusing stories, and inspired performances. Audiences are invited to attend a live recording of the radio program, which has helped launch the careers of hundreds of young performers over its more-than-20-year history. Local talent for the performance will be recruited in the Bay Area beginning this fall. Musicians ages 8-18 can submit an application to fromthetop.org/apply. There is a $55 application fee that is waived for students with financial need.
The pianist and new-music champion Anthony de Mare gives the Broadway songs of Stephen Sondheim bold new interpretations as intimate piano solos, in his acclaimed Liaisons project. De Mare has commissioned three dozen composers—including William Bolcom, Steve Reich, Tania León, Mason Bates, Gabriel Kahane, Ethan Iverson, and Wynton Marsalis—to each re-imagine a favorite Sondheim song as a solo piano work. The result is a set of new compositions that use the original themes as springboards for invention, and showcase de Mare’s interpretive range at the keyboard. De Mare will perform a selection of songs from the Liaisons project at this concert.

The Boston Pops pay tribute to another American icon, the orchestra’s former principal conductor and now its conductor laureate John Williams, in a program sure to include selections from some of the 22-time Grammy winner’s most memorable Hollywood film scores, such as Star Wars, Jaws, Superman, Indiana Jones, and E.T.

Cal Performances Gala at the Greek originally planned for spring 2018 has been postponed due to scheduling conflicts. Further information about the next Gala at the Greek will be announced at a later time.

Cal Performances’ presentations in Oakland are generously underwritten by Signature Development Group.

Flyaway Productions’ Right To Be Believed is supported by Oakland Central Presents of the Downtown Oakland Association.
