Directed by Tamasaburo Bando, Evolution marks the 35th anniversary of the internationally acclaimed taiko performing arts ensemble Kodo. This new production is a culmination of Kodo’s ever-evolving artistic voyage, which boldly displays the future of taiko on stage. For decades, Kodo has led the genre of taiko performance with dedication and innovation. With Evolution, Kodo promises to drive its next generation to new heights of creative expression.

Tamasaburo Bando has crafted a program that places Kodo’s best-known work alongside some of the latest core repertoire. Signature pieces like O-daiko and Monochrome, which have been synonymous with Kodo since the days of its antecedent group, are now integrated among more recent work such as Kusa-wake and Color. This combination of classic and current is complemented by new compositions that have been created especially for this production. Ayaori is intricate and uplifting, while the climactic Rasen (Spiral) features motifs of an array of Kodo pieces from various eras of the ensemble’s history. The result is a rousing whirl of energy that carries the audience into a new dimension of taiko performance.

From the Artistic Director
This time, I’ve created a work called Evolution, which will tour through Japan and around the world. We introduced this program, created to commemorate the 35th year since the founding of Kodo, in August 2016, on the second night of a three-night visit to Tokyo’s Suntory Hall.

The inspiration for this program is the belief that the variety of works that have accumulated over our history could combine with new works that Kodo is performing now, creating a spiral advancing into the future.

I created some new works for this production, including the fun of Monochrome at the end of the first act, and Color at the beginning of the second act. Spiral and Ayaori will be performed for the first time in North America. We also added a fresh atmosphere surrounding the very large drums.

Kodo is evolving as it moves in a spiral from past into the future. I hope that our efforts will be appreciated, and I look forward to your presence at our performances. Enjoy!
— Tamasaburo Bando

Tamasaburo Bando is a leading Kabuki actor, and the most popular and celebrated onnagata (an actor specializing in female roles) currently on stage. He has demonstrated his profound aesthetic across numerous platforms, receiving the highest acclaim for his many artistic endeavors. Bando accepted the invitation to become Kodo’s artistic director in 2012. In September of that year, he was recognized as an Important Intangible Cultural Property Holder (“Living National Treasure”) and in 2013 he was decorated with France’s highest honor, the Order of Arts and Letters, Commander.

Kodo
Exploring the limitless possibilities of the traditional Japanese drum, the taiko, Kodo is forging new directions for a vibrant living art form. In Japanese the word “Kodo” conveys two meanings: Firstly, “heartbeat,” the primal source of rhythm. The sound of the great taiko is said to resemble a mother’s heartbeat as felt in the womb, and it is no myth that babies are often lulled asleep by its thunderous vibrations. Secondly, read in a different way, the word can mean “children of the drum,” a reflection of Kodo’s desire to play the drums simply, with the heart of a child. Since the group’s debut at the Berlin Festival in 1981, Kodo has given over 6,000 performances in 50 countries worldwide under the banner “One Earth Tour,” spending about a third of the year overseas, a third touring in Japan, and a third rehearsing and preparing new material on Sado Island.

Kodo strives to both preserve and reinterpret traditional Japanese performing arts. Beyond this, members on tours and research trips all over the globe have brought back to Sado a kaleidoscope of world music and experiences that now exerts a strong influence on the group’s performances and compositions. Collaborations with other artists extend right across the musical spectrum and Kodo’s lack of preconceptions about its music continues to produce startling new fusions and forms.

Kodo’s Home of Sado Island
Since 1971 Sado Island has been Kodo’s home and the platform from which the group reaches out to the world. With nature’s warm embrace evident in each of her four seasons, Sado is an extraordinary place where traditional ways of life and the island’s indigenous performing arts still thrive today. The island is a fountain of inspiration for Kodo and the guiding force behind the group’s creative lifestyle. The artists’ goal is to find a harmonious balance between people and the natural world. Each time Kodo ventures off the island, the ensemble encounters new people, customs, and traditional performing arts that are ingrained in the lifestyles of each locale. Both similarities and differences prompt Kodo members to pause and reflect upon the importance of the varied and rich cultures that color our world. These life lessons permeate each performer’s experience and become an invisible source of their expression. It is through this process of living, learning, and creating that Kodo cultivates a unique aesthetic and sensitivity, reaching out toward a new world culture rooted in the rich possibilities of a peaceful coexistence between humanity and nature.

Kodo Cultural Foundation
Thanks to the support of many friends, the Kodo Cultural Foundation was established in 1997 in order to increase Kodo’s capacity for outreach projects on Sado Island. Its primary mission is to carry out nonprofit activities focused on social education and the notion of giving back to the local community. The Kodo Cultural Foundation is committed to the cultural and environmental preservation of Sado Island and oversees many ambitious projects. From the conservation of local habitats to the revitalization of rare craft traditions and Noh theaters throughout Sado Island, the highly collaborative Kodo Cultural Foundation supports many vital initiatives. Its activities include holding workshops, planning the annual Earth Celebration, creating a research library, managing the Kodo Apprentice Center and the Sado Island Taiko Centre, and carrying out research in the performing arts.

Kodo Apprentice Center
In a converted schoolhouse in Kakinoura on Sado Island, the young people who will continue and expand on Kodo’s traditions are trained, not just in musical technique but also in all matters of body and spirit. Beginning in April, apprentices live communally and train for two years. From this group, probationary members are selected in January of the second year. These chosen few spend one year as junior members, and if they are successful, they then become full Kodo members. Kodo seeks people of all backgrounds who are interested in becoming apprentices, as well as the next generation of Kodo players and staff. Apprentices live communally in the Kodo Apprentice Center, where they learn taiko, dance, song, and other traditional arts.
