It gives me special pleasure to welcome you to tonight’s sold-out West Coast premiere of Wayne Shorter & esperanza spalding’s …(Iphigenia), a Cal Performances co-commission that reimagines what opera can be and asks us to reexamine the stories we have inherited and the choices we make as a society. Shorter has written the music and spalding is the librettist and appears in the title role in this radical new take on Euripides’ ancient Greek play Iphigenia in Aulis. Together, their powerhouse creative team is headed by acclaimed director Lileana Blain-Cruz and iconic architect and designer Frank Gehry. I couldn’t be more pleased that you could join us this evening for what promises to be a memorable musical and theatrical experience.

While we at Cal Performances like to think of each of our programs as unique and remarkable, next week offers another season highlight when co-producers and stars Alicia Hall Moran (mezzo-soprano) and Jason Moran (piano) arrive on campus for the West Coast premiere of their brilliant Two Wings: The Music of Black America in Migration (Feb 17, Zellerbach Hall), a series of “gripping portraits of a vast social upheaval” (Chicago Tribune) that explores the Great Migration of six million Black Americans from the rural South to northern cities, the West, and beyond. This ambitious production (a Cal Performances Illuminations “Place and Displacement” presentation) features a star-studded roster of guest performers, writers, and thinkers, headed by composer/conductor (and 2021 winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Music) Tania León, narrator Donna Jean Murch (author of Living for the City), and the Imani Winds chamber ensemble (to name just a few!). Together, these exceptional artists trace the Morans’ family histories through the music that accompanied their brave antecedents throughout the 20th century, from Harlem Renaissance-era jazz, gospel hymns, and Broadway show tunes, to classical and chamber music and the artists’ own compositions.

February marks the time each year when Cal Performances’ programming shifts into high gear. From now through the beginning of May, the remainder of our 2021–22 season is packed with ambitious and adventurous programming. You won’t want to miss…

- sensational dance performances like Memphis Jookin’: The Show, featuring Lil Buck (Feb 25–26); The Joffrey Ballet (Mar 4–6); and the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater (Mar 29 – Apr 3)
- the west Coast premiere (Mar 12) of Place, Ted Hearne and Saul Williams’ bold meditation on the topographies of gentrification and displacement, another Illuminations “Place and Displacement” event
- the renowned English Baroque Soloists with conductor Sir John Eliot Gardiner in a transfixing program of works by Mozart and Haydn (Apr 10)
- the peerless London Symphony Orchestra (Mar 20), appearing under the direction of superstar conductor Sir Simon Rattle in a program of orchestral masterworks
- pianist extraordinaire Mitsuko Uchida playing and directing Mozart with the Mahler Chamber Orchestra (Mar 27)
- our 2021–22 artist-in-residence Angélique Kidjo in her brand new music-theater piece Yemandja (a highly anticipated Cal Performances co-commission and Illuminations event, Apr 23).

Fasten your seatbelts; we have all of this—plus much more—in store for you!

We’re very proud of our new and updated winter brochure and know that a few minutes spent reviewing our schedule—in print or online—will reveal a wealth of options for your calendar; now is the perfect time to guarantee that you have the best seats for all the events you plan to attend.

I know you join us in looking forward to what lies ahead, to coming together once again to encounter the life-changing experiences that only the live performing arts deliver. We can’t wait to share it all with you during the coming months.

Life’s Grammar…
You are all what the myth can’t bear.
You are an open tense,
To carry what could come.

—Artemis
(from Act 2, libretto by esperanza spalding)

Iphigenia was born to be sacrificed—or so the myth would have us believe, but what if she contests her fate? What if she says no? What if the winds don’t blow and the sails hang limp in the sea air? What if Helen isn’t her problem at all and instead of bowing to the relentlessness of men blinded by the promise of war, she wakes up and remembers who she is—and says no.

If your memory of the myth is blurry, don’t worry. These men are everywhere still, and this woman, too, this woman who says no—she’s also here, and she might be you. In Act 1 we’re lost between repeats in the cyclical time of trauma. One by one, another Iphigenia is sacrificed at the altar to appease Artemis, supposedly. The army is desperate for wind so they can set sail and wage war, and Artemis could compel the air to move if she felt inclined. The men are drunk, literally, but also drunk on self-satisfaction, patriotism, and desire—they are children wielding power and carrying weapons, and they hardly notice the dead women that litter the ground beneath them.

In Act 2, those women, each of them different manifestations of the myth, find each other outside of time—Artemis holds the space and weaves a thread between them. They arrive together in solidarity; they share their struggle, their sadness, strength, fury, and love. They tell their stories so that the one among them who might interrupt the myth and incite all the other stories, all the other possibilities, gathers the strength and tenderness to do so.

Myth is terribly strong and terribly seductive. How often have you suddenly woken up from the one you didn’t know you were playing out, or rather the one that was playing you out? How many times did you have to suffer through it before noticing? In Act 3, we’re back in it. Disoriented, and confused, the new Iphigenia is forced back into the myth and offered the opportunity to let go of the myth and show us all how to make something else. The opera ends in “open tense,” none of us, onstage or off, knows exactly what will happen. The ethic of improvisation takes over—the possibility of an open tense—and the art of listening and responding deeply and at the same time; what other worlds could that code of conduct and compassion create?

—Sunder Ganglani, Dramaturg
I would like to thank all the people who contributed to the birthing of this opera, such as: Jorge Mohaupt and Elaine Groenestijn, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Santana, Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. Taisaku Ikeda, The Doris Duke Charitable Foundation for financing my co-leader and co-founding partner of the group called: Weather Report; Miles Davis, Art Blakey and a long list of fellow pioneers of non-commercial music which became known as America’s authentic art form called: jazz. And thanks to some American and European astronauts who requested the transmission of music which conveys a more enlightened and futuristic version of life on this ‘blue’ planet known as Earth. Thanks to Miss Terri Lynne Carrington, Mika Shinohara, and fellow musicians: John Patitucci, Brian Blade, Danilo Perez and all our families. Esperanza Spalding has my eternal appreciation and gratitude for her 20 acts of magical prowess in a world testoned in business as usual and yet she found the time to be a creative force as a partner in not only writing the libretto and also performing so as to fulfill her occasion not only as co-creator of Iphigenia but to take a fearless plunge into the unknown for the sake of humanity!

Wayne Shorter
Wayne Shorter (Composer)

“Generally acknowledged to be jazz’s greatest living composer” (The New York Times), Wayne Shorter has left an indelible mark on the development of music for the last half-century. He first rose to prominence in the late 1950s as the primary composer for Art Blakey’s Jazz Messengers. He next joined the Miles Davis Quintet, becoming what that bandleader referred to as the ensemble’s “intellectual musical catalyst” before co-founding the pioneering group Weather Report. Since 2001, he has led his own highly acclaimed quartet.

Shorter’s works have been performed by the Chicago Symphony, Detroit Symphony, Lyon Symphony, National Polish Radio Symphonic Orchestra, Orpheus Chamber Orchestra, Prague Philharmonic, and Royal Concertgebouw Orchestra. Acclaimed artists and ensembles including Renée Fleming and the Imani Winds have also performed his works. He has received commissions from the National, St. Louis, and Nashville symphony orchestras, the Los Angeles Philharmonic, and the La Jolla Music Society. In all, Shorter has realized over 200 compositions, and dozens of these works have become modern standards.

esperanza spalding (also known as irma nejando, or, i.e.) is a being who has grown to recognize love in the abstract and aspirational, and is now fully dedicated to learning how she can serve and embody actualized love through honor for, and receptivity to, fellow humans, teachers, and practitioners of various regenerative arts.

bass, piano, composition, performance, voice, and lyrics are tools and disciplines she is engaged in deeply to cultivate her own channel for transmitting care and beauty through vibration/sound/presence.

she is currently developing a mockumentary in collaboration with brontë velez and the San Francisco Symphony // researching and developing liberation rituals in jazz and black dance // and continuing a lifelong collaboration with practitioners in various fields relating to music, healing, and cognition to develop music with enhanced therapeutic potential.

she is presently paid by Harvard University to co-create and learn with students enrolled there, working on developing creative practices that serve the restoration of people and land.

Lileana Blain-Cruz (Director)

Lileana Blain-Cruz is a director from New York City and Miami. Recent projects include: Hansel and Gretel (Houston Grand Opera); Afrofemonomy (PSNY); Anatomy of a Suicide (Atlantic Theater Company); Fefu and Her Friends (TFANA); Girls (Yale Repertory Theater); Marys Seacole (LCT3, Obie Award); Faust (Opera Omaha); Fabulation, Or the Reeducation of Undine (Signature Theatre); Thunderbodies and Revolt. She Said. Upcoming projects include: Dreaming Zenzile (St. Louis Rep) and The Listeners (Opera Norway).

Blain-Cruz was recently named a 2018 United States Artists Fellow and a 2020 Lincoln Center Emerging Artist. She is currently the resident director of Lincoln Center Theater. A graduate of Princeton, she received her MFA in directing from the Yale School of Drama.

Clark Rundell
(Conductor, Additional Orchestrations and Arrangements, Music Dramaturgy)

With a repertoire spanning centuries, continents, and styles, Clark Rundell has established himself as a champion of music ranging from the 18th century to the current day, from jazz to kora, from tango to European modernism, and from large, multidimensional projects to music of complexity and intricacy. Opera world premieres include James MacMillan’s Clemency...
at Covent Garden, Orlando Gough’s Voices & Votes in Bergen, Julian Joseph’s Tristan and Isolde in London, and Oscar Bettison’s The Light of Lesser Days in the Netherlands.

Deeply committed to the performance of new music, Rundell has given world premieres of works by composers such as Louis Andriessen, Steve Reich, Mark-Anthony Turnage, James MacMillan, Django Bates, Sir Richard Rodney Bennett, Oscar Bettison, Gary Carpenter, Trish Clowes, Tansy Davies, Tim Garland, Adam Gorb, David Horne, Julian Joseph, Steve Mackey, Steve Martland, Brad Mehldau, Martijn Padding, Gwilym Simcock, Wayne Shorter, and Julia Wolfe.

As an arranger, he collaborated with Louis Andriessen on two suites from the late Dutch master’s operas Rosa (Rosa’s Horses) and Writing to Vermeer (Vermeer Pictures). Clark Rundell spent much of his childhood in Bloomington, Minnesota. He studied conducting and trombone at Northwestern University before joining the faculty at the Royal Northern College of Music in Manchester.

Phillip Golub (Music Dramaturgy and Music Coordinator)
Phillip Golub is a composer and pianist based in New York City. His music straddles the boundary between the spontaneous and the premeditated, focusing on the act of interpretation and the “sound of magic.” Golub’s music has been performed in spaces including Merkin Hall in New York and the Broad Stage in Los Angeles. He has performed at venues ranging from Milton Court Concert Hall (London) to The Stone, the Whitney Museum, and National Sawdust (NYC). In May 2020, Golub released a debut record, Axioms // 75ab, with his band Tropos (Biophilia Records). philipgolubmusic.com.

Caroline Shaw (Additional Vocal Arrangements)
Caroline Shaw is a New York-based musician—vocalist, violinist, composer, and producer—who performs in solo and collaborative projects. She was the then-youngest recipient of the Pulitzer Prize for Music when selected in 2013 for Partita for 8 Voices, written for the Grammy-winning Roomful of Teeth, of which she is a member. Recent commissions include new works for Renée Fleming with Inon Barnatan, Dawn Upshaw with So Percussion, and Gil Kalish, the Seattle Symphony, Anne Sofie von Otter with Philharmonia Baroque, and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Film scores include Erica Fae’s To Keep the Light and Josephine Decker’s Madeline’s Madeline. She has produced for Kanye West (The Life of Pablo; Ye) and Nas (NASIR), and has contributed to records by The National, and by Arcade Fire’s Richard Reed Parry. Shaw has studied at Rice, Yale, and Princeton, currently teaches at NYU, and is a Creative Associate at the Juilliard School.

Ganavya Doraiswamy (Additional Text)
With a voice described as “a thick ephemera, like smoke as dark as ink” (The New York Times) and “most enchanting” (NPR), Doraiswamy is a student of love, sound, heart, and listening.

Sunder Ganglani (Dramaturg)
Sunder Ganglani works in collaboration between forms; music, theater, civil disobedience, radical pedagogy, visual art. As the co-artistic director of the Foundry Theater his award-winning work with Ariana Reines, Claudia Rankine, W. David Hancock, David Greenspan, and many others has toured nationally/internationally. At the moment, he is working on new experiments in music with composers Justin Hicks and the Hawtplates, Rhiannon Giddens, Helga Davis, and Flutronix; new experiments in co-created performance with Charlotte Brathwaite, June Cross, Cauleen Smith, Janani Balasubramanian, and Ak Jansen; and a public protest mass on the sixth extinction with Reverend Billy and the Stop Shopping Choir.
She works with an inner library of “spi/ritual” blueprints offered to her by an intergenerational constellation of collaborators. Her degrees include psychology, theater, and graduate degrees from Berklee, UCLA, and Harvard. Her residencies include Civitella and Camargo. Recent works include the Peter Sellars-directed this body is so impermanent… (2021) and Vimalakirti Sutra Chapter 7: The Goddess (2019). Upcoming works include an opera about her grandmother and a meditation on Alice Coltrane Turiyasangitananda’s Monument Eternal.

Joy Harjo (Additional Text)
Joy Harjo, the 23rd Poet Laureate of the United States, is an internationally renowned performer and writer of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation. Harjo is the author of nine books of poetry, several plays, children’s books, and two memoirs; she has also produced seven award-winning music albums. Her many honors include the Ruth Lily Prize from the Poetry Foundation, the Academy of American Poets Wallace Stevens Award, two NEA fellowships, and a Guggenheim Fellowship. She is a chancellor of the Academy of American Poets and Board of Directors Chair of the Native Arts & Cultures Foundation, and she holds a Tulsa Artist Fellowship. Harjo lives in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Safiya Sinclair (Additional Text)
Safiya Sinclair was born and raised in Montego Bay, Jamaica. She is the author of Cannibal, and winner of a Whiting Writers’ Award, the American Academy of Arts and Letters’ Metcalf Award in Literature, and the Prairie Schooner Book Prize in Poetry. Sinclair’s other honors include a Pushcart Prize, fellowships from the Poetry Foundation, the Civitella Ranieri Foundation, and the Elizabeth George Foundation. Her work has appeared in the New Yorker, Granta, The Nation, and elsewhere. Sinclair is currently an associate professor of creative writing at Arizona State University. Her memoir, How to Say Babylon, is forthcoming from Simon & Schuster.

Teresa Cruz (Assistant Director)
Teresa Cruz is a Canadian-born, Texas-raised director, builder, and producer. She is currently a company member and Associate Artistic Director at the VORTEX Rep in East Austin. VORTEX directing credits include She Kills Monsters (2018), Ride the Wave (2020), Origin Story (2020), and The VORTEX Odyssey (2020). Her AD credits include Henry IV, Part 1 (Oregon Shakespeare Festival, 2017) and Water by the Spoonful (Center Theatre Group, 2018). She has completed internships at Berkeley Repertory Theatre, Ars Nova, and Huntington Theatre Company. Cruz is a graduate from Connecticut College with a degree in Psychology and Theater.

PRODUCING TEAM

Jeff Tang (Executive Creative Producer)
Jeff Tang is a composer and creative producer whose practice is rooted in a deep delight in unexpected cross-pollinations and an ambition to agitate the historical cultural narrative. Co-founder of Real Magic with esperanza spalding, his recent producing credits include Sound Heals for the Sound Health Network, The Heart of the Song for the Dallas Opera, the podcast Active Hope for the Apollo Theater, Kennedy Center, and National Sawdust, and as Consulting Producer for the Kennedy Center and Content Consultant for the San Francisco Opera. As Associate Producer for Brooklyn’s NationalSawdust+, he has worked with poets, scientists, filmmakers, musicians, and jugglers, and he was a producer for the Metropolitan Opera’s international Live in HD and radio broadcasts, and a catalyst for the Met’s public programming, audience engagement, and social impact. Tang is a proud member of PeopleMover, a creative studio specializing in involvement that centers anti-racism and equity in its commitment to collective liberation. www.jeftang.com.

Cath Brittan (Producer)

Brittan is also the producer for AMOC*, the American Modern Opera Company (Zack Winokur & Matthew Aucoin).

Real Magic
Formed in 2018 by Creative Producer Jeff Tang and Grammy Award-winning bassist, composer, and vocalist esperanza spalding, Real Magic was created to produce …(Iphigenia) independently, in an environment of radical experimentation and open collaboration free from commercial expectations. www.iphigenia.live

Octopus Theatricals
Founded by Tony and Grammy-winning producer Mara Isaacs, Octopus Theatricals collaborates with artists and organizations to foster an expansive range of compelling theatrical works for local and global audiences. We eschew boundaries—aesthetic, geopolitical, institutional—and thrive on a nimble and rigorous practice. Current projects include Hadestown by Anaïs Mitchell (Broadway, eight Tony Awards including Best Musical; Grammy Award, Best Musical Theater Album); Dreaming Zenzile by Somi Kakoma; SOCIAL! Dance Club created by Steven Hoggett, Christine Jones and David Byrne; An Iliad by Lisa Peterson and Denis O’Hare (Obie Award); Dianne McIntyre’s Speaking In The Same Tongue; And So We Walked by DeLanna Studi; Bill Irwin’s On Beckett; and Theatre for One and many more. In 2020, Octopus launched the Producer Hub, an online resource supporting independent producers in the experimental and performing arts sectors. www.octopustheatricals.com.

Memphis Jookin’: The Show featuring Lil Buck

West Coast Premiere

In the West Coast premiere of this dazzling show, Lil Buck—along with a DJ and an expert eight-dancer crew—transports us to the streets, the hallways, and the clubs where Memphis Jookin’ was born.

“His agile physical instrument is astounding... [and] fueling it all is the emotion that drives his magnetic dancing. There is struggle and pain, joy and healing, and ultimately, a transformation.”
—The New York Times
