This weekend, Cal Performances proudly presents the West Coast premiere of Ted Hearne and Saul Williams’ Place (Mar 12), a semi-staged secular oratorio and a bold meditation on the topographies of gentrification and displacement. One of this season’s Illuminations “Place and Displacement” events (see our website for more information), Place was a finalist for the 2021 Pulitzer Prize for Music; it’s a remarkable work that I’m proud to see performed at UC Berkeley. (The recording for the New Amsterdam label captured the attention of the music world, earning two 2021 Grammy nominations—for Best Chamber Music/Small Ensemble Performance and Best Contemporary Classical Composition.)

We’ll also be privileged to witness the unique communicative powers and vocal pyrotechnics of Polish countertenor Jakub Józef Orliński (Mar 13) in a wide-ranging program featuring works by Handel and Purcell, along with a wonderful—and less familiar—selection of Polish songs by such accomplished composers as Henryk Czyż, Mieczysław Karłowicz, and Stanisław Moniuszko. It might surprise you to learn that, in his spare time, Orliński is also an accomplished breakdancer. (“In breaking, there is a lot of freedom,” he told ABC News on a recent Zoom call from Warsaw. “It feels like you are becoming…a visual effect of the music you hear, which is really freeing…. I treat it as a meditation.”). But if Orliński refrains from breaking during his Cal Performances debut at Hertz Hall this weekend, you can bet that his singing will be equally jaw-dropping. Orliński will be joined by his one-time Juilliard dormmate and frequent collaborator, Polish pianist Michał Biel.

March marks the time of year that traditionally finds Cal Performances operating on all cylinders. From now through the beginning of May, the remainder of our 2021–22 season is packed with adventurous programming. You won’t want to miss…

- the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater (Mar 29 – Apr 3), returning to Zellerbach Hall for the first time since the initial pandemic shutdown in 2020; this year’s Ailey programs—featuring more than a dozen works from the company’s legendary repertory—have only recently been announced, so make sure to check our website for details
- the one and only London Symphony Orchestra (Mar 20), appearing under the direction of luminary conductor Sir Simon Rattle in a program of orchestral masterworks
- pianist extraordinaire Mitsuko Uchida playing and directing Mozart with the Mahler Chamber Orchestra (Mar 27)
- the renowned English Baroque Soloists with conductor Sir John Eliot Gardiner in a transfixing program of works by Mozart and Haydn (Apr 10)
- Angélique Kidjo, our 2021–22 artist-in-residence, in her new music-theater piece Yemandja (a much-anticipated Cal Performances co-commission and Illuminations event, Apr 23).

Fasten your seatbelts; we have all of this—plus much more—in store for you!

We’re very proud of our updated winter brochure and know that a few minutes spent reviewing our schedule—in print or online—will reveal a wealth of options for your calendar; now is the perfect time to guarantee that you have the best seats for all the events you plan to attend.

I know you join us in looking forward to what lies ahead, and to coming together once again to encounter the life-changing experiences that only the live performing arts deliver. We can’t wait to share it all with you during the coming months.

Gentrification is a generational conversation that has gone by many names. We should not discuss what brings you back to the city without acknowledging why you left. Director Patricia McGregor asks you (yes, you): Has gentrification been a protagonist or antagonist in your life? Why and how?

Place began with Ted Hearne addressing the intersections of privilege and appropriation in his own life and work, weighing a personal sense of place and space in the most immediate family relationships against the inherited and generational. How is whiteness a learned performance?

Saul Williams calls Place a fiery meditation on gentrification. Ted’s opening libretto was a volley to Saul, who responded to Ted’s words—complicating, expanding, implicating, addressing, and redressing Ted’s narrow view, to consider the experiences of others across the street, across the globe, and across time.

“Gentrification is a generational conversation that has gone by many names. We should not discuss what brings you back to the city without acknowledging why you left.”

Director Patricia McGregor asks you (yes, you): Has gentrification been a protagonist or antagonist in your life? Why and how?

Place began with Ted Hearne addressing the intersections of privilege and appropriation in his own life and work, weighing a personal sense of place and space in the most immediate family relationships against the inherited and generational.

How is whiteness a learned performance?

Saul Williams calls Place a fiery meditation on gentrification. Ted’s opening libretto was a volley to Saul, who responded to Ted’s words—complicating, expanding, implicating, addressing, and redressing Ted’s narrow view, to consider the experiences of others across the street, across the globe, and across time.

“You realize your inability to face these things may drive me crazy? Do you realize that it may have already driven you crazy?”

Ted wrote Place to be sung by specific people he grew up singing with in Chicago—Josephine, Isaiah, Sophia—and by individuals he encountered in different musical contexts later in life—Ayanna, Steven, Sol. Music was, at times, its own map that cut through the boundaries of streets he otherwise would not have crossed. The 18 instrumentalists come from different places, too—RC, Braylon, and Rohan play with R&B and hip-hop artists; Ron plays jazz gigs almost every night; Taylor specializes in experimental music; and, of course, the members of Berkeley Symphony are immersed in a huge variety of classical and contemporary music—so the adjacency and overlay of their individual relationships to music is another kind of map.

While the piece was drawn from a matrix of specific collaborators, there are no static characters here. The singers are at once themselves and shifting, situational archetypes in an ongoing conversation that dissolves, complicates, and refreshes characters through poems set to music.

Saul says: “Place provided one for me to expand upon ideas, feelings, and observations surrounding the connected realities of gentrification. I chose to connect dots, neighborhoods, and worlds through a steady probing of Ted's original text (Part One), working to pinpoint theoretical and historical origins while confronting the staggering monopoly of soft-voiced “I”s with eyes and visibility to explore how the positioning of even the well-meaning and self-aware white male tenant in the theatrical imagination places a heavy price on a would-be democracy and conditions the proscenium as an occupied space.”

Through this process, our focus has shifted to DISplaceMENT. While workshopping the piece at the Walt Disney Concert Hall in Los Angeles, we were aware that we were only a couple of blocks from tent cities, and that we were standing on ground that had been home to Tongva people long before. Where had/have those displaced people and their descendants found to make a new home?

ABOUT THE ARTISTS

TED HEARNE (composer, co-librettist, conductor) is a composer, singer, bandleader, and recording artist noted for his “pan-stylistic freedom” (Pitchfork) and “tough edge and wildness of spirit” (The New York Times), who “writes with such technical assurance and imaginative scope” (San Francisco Chronicle). Hearne’s Sound From the Bench, a cantata for choir, electric guitars, and drums setting texts from US Supreme Court oral arguments, was a finalist for the 2018 Pulitzer Prize. Hearne’s oratorio The Source sets text from the Iraq and Afghanistan War Logs, along with words by Chelsea Manning (the US Army private who leaked those classified documents to WikiLeaks), and was premiered to rave reviews at the 2014 BAM Next Wave Festival. The New York Times called The Source “a 21st-century masterpiece” and included it on its list of the best classical vocal performances of 2014 and best albums of 2015. During the 2016–17 season, the original production of The Source (directed by Daniel Fish) was presented by both the Los Angeles Opera and San Francisco Opera. Law of Mosaics, for string orchestra, has been performed by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, San Francisco Symphony, and the Los Angeles Philharmonic, and was named one of the New Yorker’s most notable albums of 2014 by Alex Ross. Hearne teaches composition at the University of Southern California, and his works have been conducted by Michael Tilson Thomas, John Adams, and Gustavo Dudamel. Recent collaborations have paired him with poets Dorothea Lasky and Kemi Alabi, director Daniel Fish, and Erykah Badu. RC WILLIAMS (keyboard) is a maestro working across multiple genres who shares his passion for music-making and storytelling with audiences in venues ranging from arenas to living rooms. Raised by a family of professional musicians in Dallas, TX, Williams attended the Booker T Washington High School, an institution renowned for producing extraordinary talent. His studies focused on jazz and synthesizer combinations. Williams received an opportunity to tour with the internationally celebrated gospel group God's Property. This experience opened the doors for Williams to tour and perform alongside such artist as Erykah Badu, Snoop Dogg, Prince, Jill Scott, Queen Latifah, The Roots, Bootsy Collins, Pharell Williams, Mos Def, Common, Talib Kweli, Dead Prez, Dwele, Raheem Devaughn, Bilal, Roy Ayers, and Roy Hargrove, to name just a few. This Grammy Award-winning touring musician has also received multiple Grammy nominations for producing and writing. Currently, he is working with his group RC and the GRITZ, which released its third album in the fall of 2018. Williams is also a core member of Erykah Badu’s electronic production group, the Cannabinoids. Along with these duties, he also tours with Snoop Dogg and Badu as the musical director for her legendary live show.

TAYLOR LEVINE (electric guitar) is a guitarist and circuit builder. He often works within the experimental, improvised, composed, classical, and noise music communities. Besides playing in his has been found making music with a diverse range of artists including John Zorn, Steve Reich, Marc Ribot, Bang on a Can, Tyondai Braxton and Kronos Quartet. When not performing, Levine can be found living in Brooklyn, developing electronic circuits for himself and others in the music community.

BRAYLON LACY (electric bass) is an upright and electric bassist whose playing is richly influenced by his family’s musical and gospel roots as well as jazz inspirations. Lacy has toured the globe with an array of artists in all genres, including Wynton Marsalis, Prince, Erykah Badu, Chaka Khan, Roy Ayers, Israel Houghton, Kirk Whalum, Oleta Adams, N'Dambi, and the late Wayman Tisdale. He began playing in church and has been performing professionally for 15 years. Lacy’s formal training began with Dean Hill and continued in his years at Booker T Washington High School, Dallas’ arts magnet high school. He further studied music at Weatherford College and the University of North Texas. Lacy has been featured on numerous recordings including the Grammy award-winning Hero by Kirk Franklin and Erykah Badu’s Mama’s Gun. Featured in Bass Player magazine, Lacy has several endorsements including Aguilar Amplification, DR Strings, and Fender guitars. He maintains a busy schedule of recording, teaching, and touring nationally as well internationally.

ROHAN CHANDER (electronics) (a.k.a AIY- YER) is an artist and producer based in New York and Los Angeles. His work concerns the positioning of personal experience upon post-digital culture, calling attention to identity, body, performativity, and bias. Chander’s primary engagement with genre space as a vehicle for critique of community against the self creates larger, often extra-terrestrial narratives about methods for self actualization. His work attempts to grapple with how these processes enable a malleable understanding of identity while recognizing our responsibility towards community, equity, and expressive liberty. Described as “hypersensory” by the Washington Post, Chander’s work has been commissioned by organizations including the Barlow Endowment for Music Composition, the Los Angeles Philharmonic Association, the Matt Marks Impact Fund, and Bang on a Can, and he has had works performed by the International Contemporary Ensemble, Alarm Will Sound, Chromic, Sō Percussion, and Beethoven. Chander was recently named a finalist for the 2022 Gaudeamus Award for his upcoming solo album Final Skin, to be released by Cantaloupe Music this spring.

BERKELEY SYMPHONY is unique among Bay Area and American orchestras for its commitment to innovation, community, and excellence. Founded in 1971 in the intellectual and artistic nexus of Berkeley, California, the orchestra is committed to premiering and commissioning new music, sustained by the supportive musical environment of Berkeley, the East Bay, and the San Francisco Bay Area. Berkeley Symphony ushered in a new era with the appointment of Joseph Young as the Orchestra’s fourth music director, following his highly successful and critically acclaimed debut appearance as guest conductor in January 2019. In 2021, Young returned to the stage as music director for the historic 50th anniversary season, which celebrates the orchestra’s rich history; showcases diverse programming ranging from familiar, reimagined classics to the music of today; and looks toward an exciting future of artistic innovation. Learn more about Berkeley Symphony at berkeleysymphony.org.

PETER GRUNBERG (rehearsal pianist). The Sydney-born musician Peter Grunberg has appeared as a piano soloist with the San Francisco Symphony; performed at the Aix-en-Provence, Salzburg, and Tanglewood festivals; and collaborated in recital with such artists as Frederica von Stade, Thomas Hampson, and Joshua Bell.
He has conducted at the Moscow Conservatory, Grand Théâtre de Genève, and the Sydney Opera House.

Grunberg left his native Australia at age 16 to study mathematics at Trinity College, Cambridge. He worked in opera and festivals throughout Europe before being appointed Head of Music Staff at San Francisco Opera in 1992, where he has retained a relationship as a master coach for their Merola and Adler training programs.

Former Musical Assistant to Michael Tilson Thomas at the San Francisco Symphony, Grunberg has been an assistant producer on many of that orchestra's Grammy-winning audio recordings and was a principal collaborator on the ensemble's Keeping Score project.

Grunberg maintains an active life as a recitalist and chamber musician. Later this month, as artist-in-residence with LiederAlive! San Francisco, he will be performing with the cellist Oliver Herbert a program of music by Beethoven and Schumann.

THE PRODUCERS

The LOS ANGELES PHILHARMONIC (co-producer), under the vibrant leadership of Music & Artistic Director Gustavo Dudamel, presents an inspiring array of music through a commitment to foundational works and adventurous explorations. Both at home and abroad, the LA Phil—recognized as one of the world's outstanding orchestras—is leading the way in groundbreaking and diverse programming, on stage and in the community, that reflects the orchestra's artistry and demonstrate its vision. 2021–22 marks the orchestra's 103rd season.

More than 250 concerts are either performed or presented by the LA Phil at its three iconic venues: the Frank Gehry-designed Walt Disney Concert Hall, The Ford, and the famed Hollywood Bowl. The organization's commitment to the music of our time is evident throughout the season programming, as well as in its exhilarating Green Umbrella series, festivals, artist residencies, and the LA Phil's extensive commissioning initiatives.

The orchestra's involvement with Los Angeles extends far beyond its venues, with wide-ranging performances in the schools, churches, and neighborhood centers of a vastly diverse community. Among its influential and multifaceted learning initiatives is YOLA (Youth Orchestra Los Angeles), inspired by Venezuela’s revolutionary El Sistema. Through YOLA, the LA Phil and its community partners provide free instruments, intensive music instruction, and leadership training to nearly 1,300 students from underserved neighborhoods, empowering them to become vital citizens, leaders, and agents of change. In the fall of 2021, YOLA opened its own permanent, purpose-built facility: the Judith and Thomas L. Beckmen YOLA Center at Inglewood.

The orchestra also undertakes tours, both domestically and internationally, including regular visits to New York, London (where the LA Phil is the Barbican Centre’s International Orchestra Partner), Paris, and Tokyo. As part of its global Centennial activities, the orchestra visited Seoul, Tokyo, Mexico City, London, Boston, and New York.

BETH MORRISON PROJECTS (BMP) is one of the foremost creators and producers of new opera-theater and music theater, with a fierce commitment to leading the industry into the future, cultivating a new generation of talent, and telling the stories of our time.

Founded by “contemporary opera mastermind” (Los Angeles Times) Beth Morrison, who was honored as one of Musical America's Artists of the Year/Agents of Change in 2020, BMP has grown into “a driving force behind America's thriving opera scene” (Financial Times), with Opera News declaring that the company, “more than any other...has helped propel the art form into the twenty-first century.”

Operating across the US and internationally, with offices in Brooklyn and Los Angeles, BMP’s unique model offers living composers the support, guidance, and freedom to experiment, allowing them to create singularly innovative and impactful projects. Since forming in 2006, the company has commissioned, developed, produced, and toured over 50 works in 14 countries around the world, including the Pulitzer Prize-winning chamber operas Angel’s Bone and prism.

In 2013, BMP co-founded the PROTOTYPE Festival with HERE Arts Center, which has been called “utterly essential” (The New York Times), “indispensable” (The New Yorker), and “one of the world’s top festivals of contemporary opera and theater” (Associated Press).

In her first foray into musical theater, Cal Performances’ 2021–22 artist-in-residence—and three-time 2022 Grammy nominee—Angélique Kidjo explores themes of love, betrayal, honor, and revenge against a backdrop of slavery in 19th-century West Africa. Named after a Yoruban deity, Yemandja is a panoramic work of magic realism, a stunning parable about gods and humans.
